DALLAS, July 30 .- (AP)-Louis J. Taber, master of the National Grange, said today the first great fight of the order was for justice to the Southern farmer.

"Today, agriculture stands the crossroads of progress, fighting for its future," the Columbus, Ohio, agriculturist said in a speech at the Texas Centennial Exposition.

"The farmer composes one-third of the nation's population, one-sixth of those gainfully employ-ed, and almost one-sixth of the nation's wealth; yet last year re-ceived but one-twelfth of the na-

This, he added, will require balancing production, the protection of the American market, the finding of new uses for farm products and new uses for farm products and tariff justice.

CHIN EXERCISE. A firm muscled body needs exercise, a firm muscled chin requires the same thing. Miss Forbes gives you the chin exercises today for you to practise at home.

Here are three very simple exercises for an aging or flabby chin, and a thorough nourishing and astringent treatment as well treatment as well.

If you follow
these suggestions
at the first sign
of age, I can promise you that your chin will not grow old, and,
if it has already done so, that it done so, that and you w i look years young and you willow younger.

The exercise should be done E. R. Forbes morning and night. You first breathe in deeply, bend the head forward, letting it fall on the chest, and breathe out. The muscles are now entirely relaxed. Now breathe in again, and stiffen the muscles, slowly rise the head, and let it go back as far as possible. Breathe out, raise the head to normal position, and repeat. You should do this about ten times. The second exercise begins by making all the muscles of the neck tight. You breathe deeply and bend the neck as far to the left and then to the right as you can, breathe out and begin all over again, repeating this half a dozen times.

Then you go on to the third exercise; inhale, tense the muscles of the neck, turn the head and look backwards and upwards over the left shoulder, exhale, bring the head back to normal position, inhale and repeat, only look over the other shoulder. Do this half inhale and repeat, only look over the other shoulder. Do this half a dozen times.

a dozen times.

These exercises are not only good for the chin, but for flabby neck muscles and they are even helpful for an undeveloped chest. Naturally, they should be done with the windows open, so the air is fresh.

At bedtime the pores of the skin should be opened by holding a cloth wrung from hot water under the chin. A really nour-be followed by a thorough rubbing with ice.

Mrs. M. H. C.—Your hair tonic will be effective, event though you did weaken it down a bit with too much rose water. Apparently, you have all the ingredients in it that are needed to round out the formula. You used good judgment in adding more oil; that is, if the mixture does not cling to the hair shafts and make it a bit too oily. The tonic as written is a perfectly balanced formula, with just enough oil to prevent the alcohol from being drying, and also give the alcohol a chance for the bit of stimulation the scalp needs, while the other ingredients in the formula are being taken up by the scalp. Each ingredient has a purpose in the mixture as a whole, although it is often advisable to take out the sulphur, even though it is a purifying treatment, and helpful in cases of dandruff, but it may give a slightly yellowish cast to some pure white hair. Aside from such rare instances, the sulphur should be retained. There is no reason at all why you should not use the sweet almond oil on your skin in place of a cream. The virtue in any cream, after all, is just the oil that is in it, and the less wax, the better, too. Perfumes are sometimes left out, as they are drying to the skin; but most women are willing to overlook that matter for the sake of the alluring scent of the perfume.

F. N. There is nothing you can

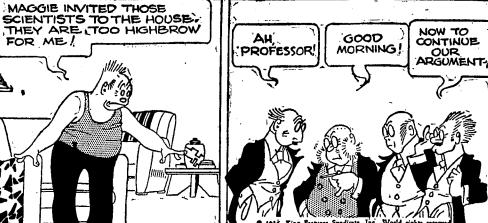

F. N. There is nothing you can do that is advisable for reduc-ing the size of your bust, with-out also reducing all over your body. At 18, you may easily ex-pect your entire figure to slim down a trifle and the bust will be less noticeable.
